History

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

1975

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences was established in conjunction with Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University. Initially, it was not organized into distinct faculties. Faculty members affiliated with the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences were responsible for teaching a wide range of subjects, which played a crucial role as part of the education curriculum. In 1975, the government ruled that all teacher colleges must become higher education institutions. Therefore, the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offered programs leading to a 2-year diploma and a 4-year undergraduate degree. The faculty offered three major areas of study: Thai, English and Social Studies.

1984

The curriculum was developed, and a liberal arts program was introduced.

1992

Under the Rajabhat Institute Act, the title "Head of Faculty" was changed to "Dean" with the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences overseeing 11 departments.

1999

The department structure converted to a course program in accordance with the curriculum resulting in 11 graduate programs.

2000

The art, dance, drama, and music programs were relocated under the Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts. As a result, The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offered 7 arts programs as a 4-year bachelor degree.
